Spotlight on Student Library Employees - Part II

In this issue, we profile the Computer Lab Monitors. Look for the sign at the Circulation Desk indicating the Computer Lab Monitor who is on duty.

Second-year law student Brian Waterman is from Red Hook, New York. Brian attended Marist College in Poughkeepsie, New York and has a B.S. in Business Administration with an emphasis in International Business and a concentration in Economics. While attending college, he was also employed by consulting firms to provide research and analyses in the manufacturing industry. He intends to pursue a career in corporate consulting as he likes the project-oriented focus of consulting. Brian is a member of Phi Alpha Delta. He enjoys working as a Computer Lab Monitor because he can utilize his knowledge of software and hardware and get his studying done when he is not assisting students with computer problems.

Second-year student Christopher Martone is from New City, New York. He is a graduate of Pace University (New York City campus) and has a Bachelor of Business Administration in Business Economics. After graduating from Pace University and prior to coming to the law school, Chris worked as a paralegal for a year. He is a BarBri rep. Chris thinks that the legal profession is a terrific one. He wants to advocate for people's rights and his career goal is to do some litigation and practice real estate law. As a Computer Lab Monitor, Chris enjoys helping his colleagues with their computer problems so as to make their tasks go more smoothly (e.g. assisting students with printing problems). He appreciates the opportunity to do his homework when he is not busy assisting students.

Second-year student Elizabeth Étrie is originally from Holden, Massachusetts. When she is not in Bristol, she resides in the island community of Vinalhaven, Maine. Libby graduated from Husson College in Bangor, Maine with a B.S. in Computer Information Systems. Before enrolling in law school, she worked in the Information Technology field in the Washington, D.C. area. Libby is a member of the Association for Public Interest Law, the Maritime Law Society, and Phi Alpha Delta. She is in the law school's joint degree program with the University of Rhode Island working towards a Master of Marine Affairs in addition to the Juris Doctor. Her career goal is to work in the area of marine affairs policy. As a Computer Lab Monitor, she likes utilizing her educational and experiential background to help her fellow students solve their computer problems. Libby also likes being able to do her homework in between

First-year student Greg Gimenez is from Atlanta, Georgia. Greg graduated from Furman University in Greenville, South Carolina and has a B.S. in Biology. Greg served in the U.S. Army prior to coming to law school. He is interested in government policy and would like to work for the U.S. Department of State. As a Computer Lab Monitor, Greg likes the flexibility of his duties and schedule. He enjoys the hands-on aspect of helping others.

Second-year student Rebecca Guendelsberger is from New Milford, Connecticut. She is a recent graduate of Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine where she double majored in History and in English. Ever since she was young, Rebecca has wanted to be a lawyer and she will join her dad in his law practice in Connecticut. When she is not assisting students, Rebecca appreciates the time to study.

Second-year student Todd Greenwood is from Vernon, Texas. He has a B.S. in Print Journalism from the University of North Texas in Denton, Texas and earned a B.A. in East Asian Studies from the University of Maryland while he was stationed in Okinawa, Japan during his service in the U.S. Marine Corps. His interest in U.S. policy issues of seaborne trade, military security, and maritime pollution in East Asia prompted him to apply to the Juris Doctor/Master of Marine Affairs joint degree program. With the combination of the two degrees, Todd hopes to secure employment with an agency influencing policy in the East Asian region or with a firm involved in international litigation involving seaborne trade issues. He is also interested in a position as a consulting attorney working with military personnel tried in East Asian foreign courts. Whatever Todd does, he would like to do some litigation as he enjoys being on his feet advocating for a position. For law school activities, Todd attends the Maritime Law Society and Student Animal Legal Defense Fund meetings and events. While working as a Computer Lab Monitor, Todd finds that helping his student colleagues is personally rewarding.

Advice From the Student Library Assistants

Examples and Explanations! Check them out! The Examples and Explanations Series is published by Aspen Publishers on various legal subjects. Use the law library's WebCatalog to view a list of available titles and their locations (current edition is on Reserve, previous editions are in the stacks) by typing in the title Examples and Explanations Series. Reserve copies numbered one and two are for two-hour use in the library. Copies numbered three or higher can be checked out of the library for forty-eight hours. The stack copies circulate for twenty-one days.

The format of each text in this series is that of a discussion of a legal concept followed by several short hypothetical questions (i.e. the examples) to test the reader's understanding of that concept. Individual answers (i.e. the explanations) are provided.

Martindale Hubbell

The Martindale Hubbell Law Directory (Reference, KF190 .M3) is invaluable for locating biographical information on individual attorneys and law firms. In the print version, the blue pages list individual attorneys while the white pages provide details about the firms. Information about attorneys and law firms in the directory is arranged alphabetically by state and by town within each state. You can search the Martindale Hubbell Law Directory on LexisNexis. The path is Legal >Reference >Martindale Hubbell. Categories for searching include area of law, individual states (click on United States Listings), Asia, Canada, European Union, and international listings. You can also use the Lawyer Locator at http://www.martindale.com. Categories for searching are attorney, firm, corporate, or government. You can view available attorney and/or firm listings by selecting from the location/area of practice or industry/practice groups pull-down menus.

Library Etiquette: A Please and Thank You

☺ Thanks to all the students who are helping to keep the library quiet and are not consuming food and drink while they are in the Library. It may not be obvious to everyone that the group study rooms, photocopy rooms, and computer labs are not sound-proof; please keep your voice lowered while conversing with others in those areas. Also, we request your continuing cooperation in observing the policy prohibiting food and beverages in the Library. The purpose of this policy is to protect the collection, carpet, and furniture from the ravages of food and drink and from the insects they attract. Also, it is difficult for the one library janitor to clean all the carrels, study areas and study rooms. Please pick up your scrap paper, pens, pencils, and notebooks when you leave.

☺ Thanks for promptly reshelving books after you have finished using them so that others will be able to locate them when the need arises.

☺ Thanks for not removing chairs from the carrels or lounge areas and for not bringing them into the study rooms. We appreciate not having to continually restore the furniture to its proper location.

The library staff greatly appreciates the efforts of all our students in maintaining the Library as a clean, orderly, pleasant environment for quiet study and research.
